

Animal Health

Besides management, animal health plays a major role in the progress of livestock industry. Occurrence of diseases causes heavy economic losses in terms of livestock health and production. Introduction of exotic breeds have increased the incidence of diseases especially Foot and Mouth Disease (FMD), Haemorrhagic Septicaemia (HS), Brucellosis, Mastitis, Blood protozoan diseases etc. In this concern the department undertakes important activity of Animal Health where-under the disease problems of livestock and poultry are dealt with by provision of better and effective treatment/immunisation facility. The department is providing treatment to the livestock population of the division through a well knit network of Distt Hospitals at distt level, Veterinary hospitals/dispensaries/First aid centres existing at Tehsil, block and village level. Besides one Central Veterinary Hospital at TalabTillo and one Sub-Divisional Hospital at R.S.Pura has also been established at divisional level. In these institutions besides treatment of ailing animals, vaccination and deworming programme is also carried out for protecting the livestock and poultry against the various diseases.